

NSTL to get shuttle program

The new National Space Technology Laboratory (NSTL) is expected to begin operations in the near future. The facility, located in the Rockledge area of the Space Shuttle Main Engine (SSME) test facility in California, is planned to be a major center for the development and testing of shuttle components. The NSTL will be responsible for the development and testing of the SSME, the External Tank (ET), and the Solid Rocket Booster (SRB). The facility will also be responsible for the development and testing of the Shuttle Vehicle (SV) and the Shuttle Orbiter (SO). The NSTL will be a major center for the development and testing of shuttle components, and it is expected to be a major center for the development and testing of shuttle components.

NASA will start its personnel during the latter part of this year, and the facility is expected to be operational by early 1975 as originally planned. "NASA has informed me that a new testing program will be approximately 94 people," Stennis said. "I also understand that the number of people will be transferred from the Rockledge facility to the NSTL. The majority of the remaining personnel will be employed by sub-contractors operating in the area." Prior to this shift in Space Shuttle engine testing, the Mississippi installation was already scheduled for two major Space Shuttle programs.

Detailing the ISTB testing, Stennis said, "This will be the first time the major elements of the Space Shuttle Main Engine will be brought together and tested as a unit. Following these tests, the main engine contractor will have the information necessary to proceed with full scale production." "Once the engines are produced, each one will be test fired at the Mississippi facility. This is the phase that will build employment to the 300 level," Stennis continued. "The final phase of the testing program as it is now planned," Stennis explained, "calls for combining three engines in a cluster as they will be mounted in the Space Shuttle Orbiter. This activity will increase employment to 400 in 1977 and it will continue at that level into 1978." Turning his attention to non-boket testing activities at the installation, Stennis emphasized the need to increase the earth and environmental resources work underway at the National Space Technology Laboratory. The rocket testing personnel will be in addition to the more than 1,000 people presently employed at the installation by NASA, two contractors, 13 Federal agencies and the State of Mississippi.

County will subsidize Mobile Medic Service

Hancock supervisors Monday pledged to subsidize Mobile Medic Ambulance Service up to $7,500 during its first year of operation should the company fail to obtain its projected 2,800 membership goal for Hancock County.

Martinovich told supervisors that the company presently has approximately 500 members short of its needed members from Hancock County before it could justify placing a separate unit in this county.

Board attorney Sam Favre said that normally the board could not subsidize any private business but ambulance service could be subsidized under special statute.

Reporters cleared in information leak

Allegations of information leaks from grand jury proceedings and premature release of an unsigned grand jury report last week led to a hearing on the matter by Circuit Court Judge Floyd Logan Wednesday in the Hancock County court house. Logan subpoenaed Echo reporter Dan Barber, Echo news editor Adoree Shortle, Mrs. Joyce Garcia, secretary to the board of supervisors and grand jury foreman Paul Vegas to testify at the 1 p.m. hearing.

Mississippi Sun reporter Bill Gaudet had Friday been questioned by Logan in an effort to discover who had released unauthorized copies of the report to the press and when.

Also questioned Wednesday was Times Picayune reporter Larry Ciko, Mrs. Eunice Bermond from the circuit clerk's office and Echo general manager Ellis Cuevas.

Statements from press members and Mrs. Garcia Wednesday established the fact that the court had earlier been misinformed as to the Echo's deadline as well as the time that the copies had been handed out.

Following the hearing, Judge Logan told the group that he was satisfied that the problem was "an internal one within the court" and that reporters there were not in any way responsible.

Logan said that unauthorized release of grand jury information and reports for publication is a matter that must be policed by the court as such action could lead to court proceedings and is punishable by imprisonment.

Ford to visit state Saturday

Congressmen Thad Cochran and Trent Lott and Second Congressional candidate Ben Hilburn have simultaneously announced that Vice President Gerald Ford will make visits in their separate Congressional Districts August 3.

Vice President Ford, who served in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1949 until his elevation to his present office last year, will visit Mississippi to aid the GOP candidates in a series of public rallies. Ford had served as Minority Leader of the House since 1965.

The Vice President is scheduled to first arrive in Mississippi at 10 a.m. at the Golden Triangle Regional Airport located between Columbus and Starkville. Upon arrival Vice President Ford will lead a public rally on behalf of Congressional candidate Ben Hilburn of Starkville, who is opposing freshman Democrat David Bowen in November.

The Vice President will then fly to Jackson to speak on behalf of Representative Thad Cochran of Jackson. Arrival time is set for 11 a.m., and the Vice President will appear in front of the War Memorial Building next to the Old Capitol.

Cochran faces Democratic nominee Kenneth Dean plus Independents James Meredith and Luther Latham in the November general election.

After the rally in Jackson Ford will be the guest of honor at a $250 per plate luncheon sponsored by the State Party. The luncheon will be held at the Jackson Hilton Hotel.

Following the luncheon the Vice President will fly to the Pine Belt Airport between the cities of Laurel and Hattiesburg, arriving at 2 p.m. A public rally at the airport will be held in support of the Fifth Congressional District Representative Trent Lott, who is opposed by Democratic nominee Walter Wilson Murphey of Pascagoula.

Crowds expected for Picayune Flea Market

Thousands of bargain hunters are expected to shop the fourth monthly Flea Market here set for the weekend of August 3-4 at the Gulf South Fairgrounds, Highway 11 South in Picayune.

The market, with more than 40 vendors already reserved, will feature a variety of goods for sale ranging from homemade articles to antiques.

Dealers from three states are again planning to display their wares both Saturday and Sunday. Market hours for the general public are from 9 a.m. Saturday until 6 and from 12:30 Sunday until 6.

Dealers may set up their booths, either inside or outside, beginning at 6 a.m. Saturday morning. Reservations may be made by contacting the sponsoring Picayune Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 448 or by telephoning 798-3122. Rent is $5.00 for one day or $8.00 for the weekend.

Deadline set for fishermen to testify at seafood hearings

Congressman Trent Lott has set a Monday Aug. 5 application deadline for fishermen who want to testify during next week's Congressional seafood hearings in Biloxi.

Fishermen who want to testify during the hearings, scheduled for August 9 at the Broadwater Beach Hotel, should contact Lott's Washington office before noon on Monday. The telephone number is 202-225-5772.

"We're anxious to hear the views of anyone in the seafood industry," Lott said. "But because of the limited time and the widespread interest in these hearings we need to know how many people actually plan to testify."

Lott, a member of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, said the committee's Fisheries and Wildlife Subcommittee will be conducting the hearings.

Lott will be joined by Congressmen David Bowen, Mississippi; David Treen and John Breaux, both of Louisiana. Cong. Kika de la Garza of Texas will chair the hearings.

The committee's plans call for additional hearings in New Orleans and Corpus Christi, Texas.

Emergency medical seminar set for Sept. 19

The Greater New Orleans Chapter of the Emergency Department Nurses Association will sponsor a two day Emergency Medicine Seminar at the Fairmont Hotel in New Orleans September 19 and 20.

The program will be of interest to physicians, nurses, ambulance personnel, firemen, policemen and other persons interested in or engaged in emergency medical care.

Presentations by many distinguished New Orleans physicians and allied health workers will cover some of the following topics: "Initial Care of the Burn Patient," "Wound Management and Tetanus Prophylaxis," "The Rape Crisis," "Treatment of Snake and Insect Bites," "Diferential Diagnosis of Chest Pain," and "Management of Abdominal Trauma."

A special presentation will be given by Mrs. Judith Kelleher, R.N., Emergency Department Supervisor, Doctors Hospital, San Leandro, California, on "The Challenges of the Emergency Department Nurse." Mrs. Kelleher is president of the National Emergency Department Nurses Association, which has over 6,000 members. Mrs. Doris Nelson, R.N., Patient Care Supervisor, Parkland Hospital, Dallas, Texas, will speak on "Emergency Records-Documentation-How and Why."

Advance registrations for the two day seminar will be accepted until August 20. After that date there will be an increase in the fee. Students and allied emergency personnel may register for either one or two days. The cost of luncheon is included in the registration fee.

For registration forms write: E.D.N.A., P.O. Box 19491, New Orleans, La. 70179. Representatives from major pharmaceutical and surgical supply companies will have displays on the latest in Emergency Care Products.

Three arrested in Pass

A Pass Christian man and two juvenile companions were arrested early Saturday morning on drug paraphernalia and alcohol charges after the car they were riding in was stopped for a traffic violation.

Bruce Allen Landrie, 20, 109 Alicia Dr., driver of the car, was booked on charges of improper equipment and possession of narcotics paraphernalia. The two juveniles, 16 and 17-years-old, were charged with possession of alcoholic beverages. Another male passenger in the car fled on foot when the car stopped.

The incident took place at 1:30 a.m. at the intersection of Emerald Dr. and Highway 90. Arresting officers were Capt. William Markopoulos and Auxiliary Ptn. Larry LaFontaine.

Landrie was released on $125 bond and the juveniles released to the custody of their parents.

Controversy continues over B-W school budget

by Adoree Shortle
Echo News Editor

A $33,000 cut in the Bay-Waveland Municipal School District budget by school trustees at a special meeting Thursday failed to resolve problems with budget funding, Waveland Mayor John Longo said Tuesday.

The school board also agreed to cut a projected four mill tax increase to two mills, Longo said. However, the Waveland city council still feels that the more than $500,000 required from the two cities is excessive and unnecessary.

Longo told the Echo

Tuesday that the budget "is still top heavy and there are still funds unaccounted for," mostly federal.

The decision to add four mills came as a July 15 school board meeting when the board adopted the budget submitted by school superintendent J.D. McCullough. Bay St. Louis city commissioners at the meeting stated that the cities could not support the budget's six percent increase over last year's document and accepted a suggestion for the four mills by board attorney Sam Favre.

The issue pending with Bay St. Louis is whether to add two or four mills to ad valorem taxes in the school district, or to raise tax assessments. The only other alternative to the problem, according to Bay Finance Commissioner Clarence Lader, is to close the schools.

Waveland aldermen at a recent meeting adopted a resolution objection to the tax increase, on the basis that a better compiled budget would not necessitate the additional money, nor would the schools need to be closed.

The matter has been held in abeyance pending a decision from the state attorney general on the legality of a millage increase without a public referendum.

Area women spark mental health related program

In an effort to fully explain the importance of research and projects undertaken by the Mental Health Association, the women of Waveland and Bay St. Louis have adopted a new method that will have the dual purpose of educating and raising funds at the same time.

The plan adopted in Hancock County is based on a recommendation by Mrs. Carroll Waller, wife of Governor Bill Waller. Mrs. Waller suggested that all the mayors' wives in Mississippi give a coffee, tea or other party and invite ten women who in turn would host a party for ten. These guests in turn would give a party. After these three sets of parties are given, over 1,000 women in each locality would be reached.

Mrs. John Longo of Waveland hosted the kickoff coffee on Saturday for 13 women. At this coffee the women discussed the various programs on the local level that were being conducted for children with learning and perceptual disabilities.

Mrs. Longo also presented the group with a list of services offered by the Mental Health Center in Gulfport, available to all in this region.

The women also concluded that in their parties, they would try to encourage others to help erase the stigma attached to mental health problems in order that more people would use the services that are available.

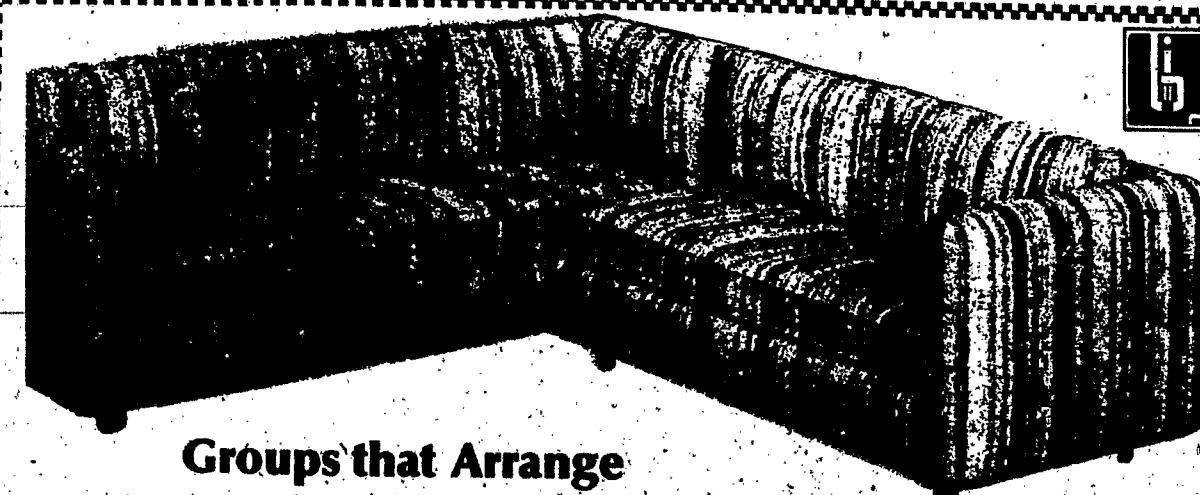

Women attending the various parties are donating $1 which will be used to carry on research in mental health as well as expand programs and services to the general public.

Riley urges correction of state law

The following is the text of remarks by Earl Riley, Executive Director, Mississippi Coast Crime Commission, made before a hearing of the subcommittee of Elections of the House Committee on Apportionment and Elections in Jackson July 30. The Echo feels that Mr. Riley's stand on this matter is of vital importance to the citizens of the Gulf Coast.

The interest, concern and enlightenment of the taxpayers of Mississippi over the past few years can only serve as an inspiration to all for the improvement of the laws which govern us.

This is precisely the reason the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission is represented here today - to seek your support and persuasion to correct an apparent glaring omission in a law now on the books.

Gentlemen, we invite your attention to Article 6, Section 175, of the Mississippi Constitution. This section provides that:

"All public officers, for wilful neglect of duty or misdemeanor in office, shall be liable to presentment or indictment by a grand jury; and, upon conviction, shall be removed from office, and otherwise punished as may be prescribed by law."

Following the conviction of a county official for federal income tax evasion, State Senator Theodore Smith wrote a letter to Attorney General A. F. Summer in April, 1973, in which he pointed out the felonious character of this conviction and requested the Attorney General's determination as to whether or not this county official should be removed from office under the provisions of Section 175, of the Constitution, and Section 4053 of the Mississippi Code, 1942; Annotated. This section is now Section 25-5-1 of the Mississippi Code, 1972, Annotated. Only the citation has been changed. The law remains the same.

Section 25-5-1 reads, as follows:

"If any public officer, state, district, county or municipal, shall be convicted of misconduct or misdemeanor in office, of any felony or other infamous crime, of corruption in office or peculation therein, or of gambling or dealing in futures with money coming to his hands by virtue of his office, the court, in addition to such other punishment as may be prescribed, shall adjudge the defendant removed from office, and the office of the defendant shall thereby become vacant. If any such officer be found by inquest to be of unsound mind during the term for which he was elected or appointed, or shall be removed from office by the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction or otherwise lawfully, his office shall thereby be vacated; and in any such case the vacancy shall be filled as provided by law."

This law, as written, would appear to be crystal clear in the intent of the legislature to offer decisive relief to the citizens of this State where public officials have abused their public trust. Most of the elements of a good law appear to be incorporated. It goes further in interpreting the legislative climate and intent at that time by specifically removing all vestiges of judicial discretion. You will note, gentlemen, that the law states that should a public official at any level of state government be convicted of misconduct, misdemeanor or felony in office, or other crimes, the court "SHALL" adjudge the defendant removed from office.

This section, in considerable detail, reaffirms the order of Article 6, Section 175, of the Constitution, by removing judicial discretion and stating that a public officer convicted of a misdemeanor in office, "SHALL" be removed from office.

This Constitutional provision and Section 25-5-1 of the Mississippi Code, would appear to offer every contingency to cover abuses in office by public officials, however, judicial interpretation has so diluted the intent of the law that both the Constitutional provision and this Section of the Mississippi Code are no longer effective.

In May, 1973, Attorney General Summer, in his reply to Senator Smith, said that the Mississippi Supreme Court has ruled, "In order to disqualify a person from serving in elective office within Mississippi, the person must have been convicted by a court in Mississippi." Attorney General Summer continued by interpreting this ruling to mean, "that conviction of a federal charge in a federal court is not grounds for removal from office."

As you are aware, during the past several years, the people of Mississippi have witnessed and endured criminal prosecutions and convictions in state and federal courts of state officials.

Following these convictions, it would naturally follow that the reasonable and prudent citizen could assume that the convicted official would be removed from office under state law and be disqualified from holding any future public office. Like many assumptions, this has proved to be not true.

State prosecution of a state official for commission of a crime while in office is very rare. In some instances where state prosecution of an incumbent public official has occurred, there has been reluctance or refusal on the part of the court to remove that official from office, despite the definitive reading of the law that the court "SHALL" adjudge the defendant removed from office.

If we are, then, to accept these judicial interpretations, it is not inconceivable that the people and the State of Mississippi could suffer the embarrassing prospect that a public official in Mississippi could continue to function in an official capacity while under federal correctional discipline or federal correctional detention.

Indeed, carrying this interpretation one step further, we could have a convicted public official serving in office, or a candidate for public office, who is under correctional discipline or serving time in jail in any of the other 49 states.

Preposterous and even ludicrous - but apparently, under the law, entirely possible. Similar classic situations have occurred in other states, and we need to take every precaution that this does not happen here.

Finally, on election matters, we would respectfully urge, if not otherwise provided, that guidelines be prepared and stringently enforced, to preclude the acceptance or endorsement by any political party of any prospective candidate who has previously been convicted of any state or federal violation as defined in the law.

We offer this recommendation with the knowledge that at least one public official convicted of multiple misdemeanors in STATE COURT was permitted to remain in office by the court for the duration of his term. He was permitted to run as a candidate for re-election for this office. He was not successful in his re-election bid. He was ambitious, however, and even contemplated campaigning for a seat in the United States Congress. The people vetoed this effort. The Mississippi Coast Crime Commission respectfully submits that the conviction of a state or federal crime in any court in the United States should serve as a substantial basis to remove a public official - state, district, county or municipal - from the office he has disgraced. The people of Mississippi are entitled to this protection and relief. We believe it was the original intent of the legislature to provide for this removal.

We sincerely hope that you share our concern and that your deliberations will result in the structure of a law which will be resolute, clear and decisive in its interpretation. As the Mississippi Supreme Court stated in its opinion, "The policy of the courts is to analyze and resolve the law as it is and if it is not what it ought to be, leave it to the legislature to change it."

Jackson State student joins Parchman staff

During the fiscal year, 1973-74, the sociology department at Jackson State University received a grant from the United States Justice Department in the amount of $83,330. The purpose of the grant was to make money available for both preservice and in-service students who were interested in careers in Law Enforcement.

The Criminal Justice Program at Jackson State, under the direction of Jimmy Bell, assistant professor of sociology, is designed to encourage young men and women to seek careers in Law Enforcement and Correctional Service. Personnel to upgrade their educational levels and skills through in-service training. The Criminal Justice Program offers specialized training in Law Enforcement Education at the undergraduate as well as the graduate level.

One of the first students to successfully complete the program requirements has been hired as a correctional counselor at Parchman Penitentiary. Bennie Paige, a 1974 graduate of Jackson State received the B. A. degree in sociology with a minor in criminal justice. The Jackson native is a 1970 graduate of Summer Hill High School. As a part of the course requirements in the Criminal Justice Program, Paige interned with the Jackson Police Department.

At Parchman, he is basically responsible for inmate orientation. When an inmate arrives, it is Paige's duty to familiarize him or her with the penal system. "If you ever come there," says Paige jokingly, "I'm one of the first you'll see."

The program at Jackson State is one which exposes students to a varied set of course offerings aimed ultimately at the application of social science principles and methods to the problems of understanding and controlling crime and delinquency.

"It is the intention of the program at Jackson State," said director Jimmy Bell, "to produce graduates who can grasp the complexities of crime and the administration of criminal justice."

The students who successfully complete the program will have the ability to see the interrelatedness of theory and action as well as the activities of the various agencies and professions in the administration of criminal justice. "Therefore," concludes Bell, "such graduates should be better enabled to contribute to the development of a more coherent criminal justice system."

Registration necessary

Young men reaching 18 years of age must still register under the Military Selective Service Act even though no one is presently being inducted, reported Mississippi Selective Service Director Harold R. White.

"Although the President's authority to induct has expired, all other provisions of the law remain in effect," said Mr. White. The annual lottery will be held, young men must continue to register and local boards will classify them as to their availability for possible military service.

Young men have three obligations: They must register within a 60-day period beginning 30 days prior to their 18th birthday; they must notify their local board of any permanent address change; they must carry their status cards with them until their liability expires, which for most men, is at age 26.

There are also three important years to remember: at 18, registration; at 19, lottery; at 20, prime year of vulnerability.

Because many boards have been relocated at administrative sites across the state, due to the present standby operation, voluntary registrars have been appointed in most communities. They are located in some high schools, city halls, county courthouses and private concerns.

Natural disaster researchers in Gulf Coast counties

If you live in a flood or earthquake-prone section of Mississippi, you may be contacted soon by a member of Temple University's Institute for Survey Research. The Institute is presently conducting a survey of a random sample of homeowners living in coastal and inland areas of the United States susceptible to natural disasters. According to Dr.

Richard B. Vanderveer, director of the study, some 3,000 interviews will be completed by the end of the survey. Interview time takes about one hour.

The study is sponsored by economists and social scientists at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania who are interested in the economic decisions made by homeowners before, during and after a natural disaster.

Some of the questions included in the survey are:

Why do people choose to live in a disaster-prone area? What are people's past experiences with natural disasters?

How important a problem do people perceive the possibility of a natural disaster to be?

What do people think is the possibility of a natural disaster occurring in the near future? What precautions, if any, have people taken to reduce the damage which might occur through a natural disaster?

What could federal, state or local governments do to help homeowners in disaster-prone areas?

"The Penn researchers are particularly interested in the decision-making factors related to the purchase of flood and earthquake insurance," Dr. Vanderveer said. "Information gathered through this survey will be useful in providing insights into the kinds of losses people suffer when a natural disaster occurs."

He also emphasized the importance of the cooperation of all selected respondents, so that the data collected can be statistically representative of the attitudes and opinions of people living in this area.

Interviewers in Mississippi will be covering Hancock County, Harrison County and Long Beach.

Shameful syndrome

It has been 10 years since a young woman named Kitty Genovese was stabbed to death on a New York street while people in nearby apartment buildings heard her cries for help watched from their windows and did nothing else. This incident has psychologists and sociologists to work trying to figure out why so many Americans have a fear of "getting involved" when they see a crime being committed.

The news lately suggests that this condition is as bad as ever, and maybe worse. A woman attacked and left bleeding from head wounds in a Chicago park recently told how crowds of passersby ignored her pleas for help when she chased her assailant on a bicycle. The other day an off-duty New York policeman, called and knocked at doors in vain, seeking help after he had encountered a rape in the hallway of an apartment house.

The robbery and murder of an ice cream vendor in Los Angeles last month took an even more appalling turn. Twenty people attracted to the scene ignored the dying victim and busied themselves cleaning out what remained of his supply of ice cream and candy.

We do not have to be psychologists to conclude that for many Americans, when put on the spot, like to believe that what happens between a criminal and his victim is some kind of private affair. That's nonsense. It's a society based on human compassion and the rule of law, a crime against one of us is a crime against us all. The Kitty Genovese syndrome may arise from fear or from indifference, but in either case it is a shameful abdication of personal and civic responsibility.

Foreign accounts

Rep. William S. Moorehead, who heads a House subcommittee on foreign operations of the U.S. government, estimates that foreign countries owe a grand total of $80 billion to the United States in loans and unpaid claims. Considering our balance of payments problem, the size of our national debt and the ambition to achieve a balanced budget, it would be tempting to have the government turn its foreign accounts over to a tough collection agency.

It is not that simple, of course. Demanding full or immediate repayment of many of these debts would create such economic problems for some countries that it would defeat the purpose of extending them loans or credits in the first place. What Rep. Moorehead has been trying to do is prompt the State Department and other agencies into being more firm about payment of debts and claims by countries that can afford to meet their obligations.

We suspect many Americans thought our government was being too lenient when it agreed to settle the $11 billion war debt owed by the Soviet Union for $722 million, at a time when the Russians are asking for more credits. There's some excuse for Iran to be delinquent on a $5.6 million loan when it is making its last push to overthrow the Shah. Uncle Sam gained worldwide respect after World War II as a patient and generous source of foreign aid. There is no respect to be gained in being known as "Uncle Sugar" or "Uncle Sam" for a lax policy toward collecting debts and claims.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor:
I want the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's directors, players, stage hands, etc. to know that there are a great many people like myself who thoroughly enjoy our amateur plays. We also appreciate the long, hot hours of work put into each production.

I personally think it unfair for anyone to sit in judgement and criticize people who give so freely of their time and energy. When we start paying for professional talent then we can expect criticism in the meantime let us go back to the kind and thoughtful reviews we use to have. The aim of our Little Theatre has always been to encourage budding talent not to cut it down.

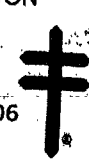

Thank you,
Mrs. T. D. Ashman

ED NOTE: It is because ALL of those affiliated with the Bay Little Theatre are amateur only in standing, but very professional in calibre and attitude that they are accorded the courtesy of professional reviews, not ordinarily given to amateur groups. Constructive critiques are being done by request of some of the theatre board and directors. The reviewer is more than happy to comply as she, too, thoroughly enjoys the productions.

DATELINE WASHINGTON

Watergate spurs debate over prosecution "deals"

By JAMES LARY
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — When an American citizen is accused of a crime the normal assumption is that his case will be disposed of in a trial before a jury of his peers.

The assumption is correct in only about one out of every 19 cases. An estimated 90 per cent of all criminal convictions result from the defendants' own plea of guilty.

And many of the guilty pleas are arrived at through negotiations popularly known as "plea bargaining." They are a deal worked out by the prosecution and the defense with the judge usually accepting the results.

The method is far from new. It has been used for decades. But because plea bargaining was practiced in settling the cases against six of the Watergate defendants, and in disposing of charges about to be brought against former Vice President Spiro Agnew, renewed attention has been focused on the system.

Many high-ranking jurists, including Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, support plea bargaining. But others feel it subverts the American ideal of equal justice and punishment geared to the seriousness of the crime.

Whatever its merits or demerits, however, the process of plea bargaining is going to change in the federal court system starting Aug. 1. On that date new federal rules of criminal procedure proposed by the Supreme Court will take effect unless Congress unexpectedly rejects them. And these rules will require that any bargain worked out by defense and prosecution attorneys must be presented in open court. The judges can then accept or reject it.

The net result is that the procedure will be brought into the open and institutionalized. In the past it was always quite hush-hush and almost never publicly mentioned despite being widely known.

The key element in plea bargaining is that each side has something the other side wants.

A defendant, by agreeing to plead guilty to a lesser offense than the one he is charged with, or might be charged with, can obtain a less severe sentence, enhance his chances of earlier parole and perhaps even retain certain rights he might otherwise lose.

By agreeing to accept the plea the prosecution, or state, can avoid the expense of a trial, reduce the backlog in an already badly overcrowded court calendar — and may also gain a valuable witness to use in providing evidence against other offenders.

The six Watergate defendants who have engaged in plea bargaining are John Dean, former White House counsel; Egil Krogh Jr., former head of the White House plumbers investigative unit; Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of the Committee to Re-Elect the President; Frederick C. LaRue, former aide to then-Atty. Gen. John Mitchell; Herbert Kalmbach, President Nixon's former personal attorney, and Charles Colson, former special counsel to the President.

In each case they pleaded guilty to a lesser charge and received either deferred or light sentences in exchange for agreeing to testify fully on what they knew about the numerous Watergate-related offenses.

It can be argued that without such plea bargaining Special Leon Jaworski would not have been able to uncover as much of the Watergate story as he has.

On the other hand it can be argued that each man received a penalty short of what it should have been.

Jaworski himself has stated he believes strongly in plea bargaining and considers it fair and appropriate.

There are a lot of telling arguments against the procedure:

It allows a defendant to beat the system. The more crowded the court calendar the lower the offense the defendant can plead guilty to. It encourages "overcharging" by prosecutors, that is, the filing of more serious charges he knows cannot be proved, so he can bargain these away and accept a plea on what should have been the proper charge in the first place. It encourages an innocent person caught in a web of circumstantial evidence to plead guilty to a crime he did not commit. When the case is weak the prosecutor will bargain hardest, often obtaining a guilty plea to a lesser offense when the defendant might have beaten all of the charges had he gone to trial.

Even more telling is the argument that if a defendant refuses to bargain and goes to trial he may receive a much harsher sentence. Harvard Law Prof. Alan Dershowitz has complained: "Defendants who refuse to bargain and insist on going to trial are usually punished for 'wasting' the government's time and resources." In other words they are punished for exercising a constitutional right to a trial by jury.

Nevertheless the courts have repeatedly refused to support contentions that plea bargaining is unconstitutional, including the Supreme Court in Brady vs. United States.

The new federal rules of criminal procedure taking effect Aug. 1 have incorporated many of the reforms recommended by critics, including those advanced by the National Advisory Commission. But it remains to be seen whether this will still all the protests in a nation that likes to believe it tries to live up to its ideals.

Local VA News

BY
Chester L. Curvey

According to Chester L. Curvey, Veterans Service Officer for Hancock County, thousands of wives and children of veterans and servicemen are failing to take advantage of benefits and programs provided by Congress, despite intensive efforts by VA to inform each beneficiary.

Educational benefits for wives, widows, and children of veterans whose total permanent disabilities, or deaths, were service-connected was cited by VA officials as one example of the many benefits available. Also eligible for educational benefits are wives and children of servicemen missing in action (MIA) or prisoners of war (POW) for more than 90 days. VA loans are available to wives of POW's and MIA's and to unmarried widows of veterans and servicemen whose deaths were service-connected.

Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) is paid by VA to widows and children if the veteran's death was service-connected. Pension is paid if death was non-service-connected. In certain cases, parents may be eligible for DIC checks. Still another benefit, an additional monthly aid and attendance payment of $55 is paid to eligible wives, widows, and parents who are patients in nursing homes, helpless or blind, or so nearly helpless or blind that regular assistance from another person is required.

Most VA benefits for dependents and survivors of veterans are based on at least 90 days of military service. For post-Korea and Vietnam Era veterans, at least 181 days in service is required for GI home loans and educational benefits entitlement.

The new law on veterans education extended the expiration date by two years. This means that all veterans with active military service after January 31, 1955 have ten years from date of discharge, or until May 31, 1976, whichever comes later to complete their education.

Social security insecure

After more than a decade of adherence to the original concept of Social Security as a source of modest benefits to supplement other retirement income, the system was expanded in 1950 to cover more people and authorize benefits not directly linked to retirement.

The first increase in the maximum tax to the worker—from $30 annually to $45—was initiated in that year to offset the increased demands on the still skimpy Social Security reserve fund.

But despite the flood of increased benefits in succeeding years, the continually expanded list of eligible beneficiaries, and the steady escalation of the maximum tax, observers didn't become really nervous until the middle 1960s when the system's assets dropped to a figure equal to annual payments.

Today, with Social Security on virtually a pay-as-you-go basis, the nervousness is bordering on panic among fiscal experts.

According to figures of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, one of every seven Americans collects some sort of Social Security benefit—disability, student, Medicare as well as retirement pensions.

The same source reports that only three workers pay taxes for each beneficiary. The figure soon will be reduced to two.

Of the 30 million people cashing Social Security checks, slightly more than half are retired, effectively debunking the lingering myth that Social Security is a sort of old-age insurance.

In fact, the Social Security system is nothing more in 1974 than a plan in which younger workers pay benefits to the elderly, the disabled, survivors and dependents.

And its very existence is threatened by scheduled increases in benefits tied to inflation and a shrinking birthrate that will compound the burden on the workers who pay the bill.

Proposals in Congress to finance a national health payment plan through Social Security further complicate the gloomy outlook.

The only assurance that his own pension is safe is reported by an authority quoted in U.S. News and World Report: "No Congress now or in the future would dare to abolish Social Security or even reduce current benefits...it would mean revolution." But it is apparent that change must be made.

This is one of a series of columns devoted to exploring the wide variety of occupations and careers available.

by Dr. Jean K. Jones

More and more women are considering business as a career choice. There is an increasing interest among businessmen in attracting women into their fields but many still express difficulty in finding qualified women. With the field of education no longer able to accommodate three-fifths of the women in each graduating class, young women are considering other career alternatives. In 1970 only 16.6 percent of those in managerial work were women.

JOB OUTLOOK
Employment outlook is especially good in several fields in business. A strong demand is anticipated for college-trained accountants. In 1970, one-fifth of all accountants were women. Market research workers (1 in 4 are women) will find excellent opportunities for collecting and presenting information used by companies in decision making. The rapid growth in use of electronic data processing equipment will make programmers (1 in 4 are women) and systems analysts (1 in 7 are women) two of the fastest growing areas. Outlook is excellent for engineers, statisticians, mathematicians, chemists, food scientists, and physicists.

There are other areas of business in which the outlook is good but not as favorable as those discussed above. Some of these areas are personnel workers, economists, hotel managers, insurance agents, and brokers, purchasing agents, salespersons in wholesale and retail trades, and underwriters.

SALARIES
According to the American Society for Personnel Administration, starting salaries in most fields will rise, but the increase will not be more than three percent for the bachelor's level. The predicted average salary in 1974 for engineers will be about $936 per month, accountants about $820, business administration majors about $756, and liberal arts graduates about $741 per month. Graduates with masters' degrees in engineering will average about $1,113 and those with masters' in business administration will earn about $1,193 per month.

JOBS IN THE '70's
CITY MANAGERS: Excellent opportunities for persons with masters' degrees in public or municipal administration.

Oct. 1 is license deadline

Wade Spruill, acting director of the Emergency Medical Services Division of the Mississippi State Board of Health, reminds ambulance companies in the state that they must be licensed by October 1.

"Any new ambulance company in the state should contact the Emergency Medical Services Division to obtain the necessary forms for licensure," Spruill said. "We have contacted all of the established companies, but do not know about some of the newer companies that have begun operation in the state."

According to the Emergency Medical Services Act of 1974, all ambulance companies in the state must be licensed by October 1, 1974. The act also set up three other deadlines for ambulance companies.

Every ambulance in the state must carry the basic emergency equipment to be decided by the advisory council of the Emergency Medical Services Division. This deadline is July 1, 1975. Every ambulance must carry one emergency technician and one driver by January 1, 1976 and all ambulances must meet all vehicle and equipment standards by July 1, 1979.

Bible study course to start in Pass

Trinity Christian Training Institute with headquarters in Bay St. Louis plans to offer a six-week evening course on the Book of Revelation starting August 6.

Sessions are scheduled for Tuesday evenings at 7:30 in Pass Christian at the First United Methodist Church. Some attention is to be given to varying schools of interpretation, but with the course emphasis upon the central message of this last book of the New Testament and its relevance for the Church today.

The Rev. Charles L. Holman, dean of the Institute, is scheduled to lead the studies as they are conducted in an informal lecture-discussion atmosphere. Some preparation outside of class will be expected under the guidance of the instructor. Tuition fee is $10.

Trinity Christian Training Institute is interdenominational and specializes in laity training.

CHARLES HOLMAN

There is a policy of non-discrimination with respect to race or national origin. Weekly evening classes have been attended by members of many churches and denominations on the Mississippi Gulf Coast and in New Orleans since the Fall of 1972.

Acker is selected Outstanding Educator

Willie C. Acker, social studies teacher at Pass Christian High School, has been named an Outstanding Secondary Educator of America for 1974 and will be included in the national organization's annual publication.

Acker was presented an award certificate in recognition of his achievements in the field of secondary education. He is now eligible for selection as one of the top five outstanding secondary educators in the nation who will receive trophies along with $500 grants to their schools.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Acker of Pearlinton, he was a 1965 graduate of Alcorn A & M College in Lorman, Miss., where he received a Bachelor of Science degree. Acker earned a Masters degree in History from Mississippi College at Clinton in 1972 and has completed further studies in his field at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Acker is married to the former Eartha Dorsey and the couple has two daughters, Darlene and Dieder. They reside at 512 Washington St. in Bay St. Louis.

Biloxian elected president

Richard Kmetz, Biloxi, has been elected incoming president of the Mississippi Retail Merchants Association and will assume office October 1. He will succeed J. Russell Bailey, Coffeeville.

The 18th Annual Convention of MRMA is being held at the Broadwater Beach Hotel with a large delegation of members, their families, and special guests in attendance.

Elected incoming first vice president is Isadore Dattel, Ruleville; second vice president, Leslie Wilkinson, Jackson; and secretary-treasurer, John Tadlock, Hattiesburg.

Russell Bailey will serve as chairman of the Executive Committee. J. D. Carmichael of Jackson is the Association's executive vice president.

Driver's license to be organ donor vehicle

The 1974 legislature enacted Senate Bill No. 2131, which states "The Commissioner of Public Safety is hereby directed to adopt and implement a program whereby anatomical organ donors may be so identified by an appropriate decal, sticker, or other marking to be affixed to the driver's license of such person."

The bill continues by stating "The Commissioner shall provide space on every application for a driver's license or renewal thereof, in which the applicant may indicate his desire to have such marking on his driver's license."

Persons whose license has not expired or has already obtained a license, may have such a marking affixed by the Commissioner upon request. This noteworthy piece of legislation was conceived by Dr. George V. Smith, Director of the Transplant Division, University Medical Center, and introduced by Senator Con

The Kidney Foundation of Mississippi, the Heart Club, the Lung Club, and other civic clubs of Mississippi endorsed the concept of organ transplantation.

Mississippians are dying today because kidneys are not available for transplantation. Others have lost their sight, and are waiting for cornea transplants. Organ transplantation is one of the greatest, although as yet incompletely exploited, therapeutic achievements of modern medicine. The lack of organs is the prime missing component of a program that would enable the medical profession to fully utilize the advances it has made in prolonging life via the kidney transplant procedure.

This piece of legislation provides for individuals to indicate their intentions of becoming organ donors in case of their untimely death. Legally, the next of kin are not bound to honor the individual's choice, but it is felt that many humanitarians in Mississippi will agree to supply urgently needed organs from the recently deceased.

For this legislation to be fully effective, an Organ Bank must be established. Organs such as kidneys, corneas and hearts cannot be preserved more than a few hours to 72 hours prior to utilization and would benefit greatly from a system of logistic control wherein resources of donor material and potential users may be accounted and matched.

The expense of such a facility will be minimal and of the utmost necessity for fully implementing the new legislation. Funding of an Organ Bank is under consideration at this time.

How do you treat poison ivy?

By IRWIN J. POLK, M.D.
Copley News Service

Is there any good way to keep from getting poison ivy? That disease, caused by coming in contact with the leaves of a plant, causes much discomfort and some serious illness in the warm weather each year. Every year more than a million people develop the painful after effects of contact with these poisonous weeds. So poison ivy is a sickness of some importance.

There are a group of plants which cause the problem. Poison ivy is a vine which has a special, easy-to-recognize arrangement of leaves in clusters of three. Poison oak is a low-growing shrub with leaves that resemble oak leaves and are again in the typical three-leaf clusters. Poison sumac is a coarse, woody shrub which is often found in wet, swampy ground. Each of these plants causes its rash in the same manner. Each makes a chemical substance which is harmful to the skin.

Poison ivy makes an oily chemical which is present in the sap of the plant. So the leaves, roots, stems, flowers and even the pollen of the plant. The active part is a chemical called PDCA, short for penta-deca-catechol amine. When this material comes in contact with the skin, it causes itching and burning.

After severe exposure, water blisters may develop on the skin which can ooze for days. But the reaction does not take place immediately. An "incubation period" of about two days is usually needed before the rash develops. So often the symptoms begin mid-week after a weekend exposure. In patients who react most severely, sometimes the incubation period is as short as five or six hours. Contact with the plant is not necessary to cause the rash. Contact with the oily sap of the poison ivy, oak or sumac plant is enough. Sometimes dirty clothes which have come in contact with the plant can transmit the oil to the skin to cause the rash. A pet which gets into the plant can bring enough oil home on its coat to trouble the entire family. In very sensitive patients, even the smoke from burning of the weeds can put the PDCA particles into the air and cause trouble.

There is good treatment for poison ivy. The best management is to avoid contact with the plant or with clothing, equipment or pets which have come in contact with it. If contact can't be avoided, bathing is the next step. Since there is an incubation period before the rash develops, bathing immediately after exposure is helpful. If you know you have

Statistics show tourist business is picking up

The gasoline shortage, rising prices, and exaggerated reports of pollution notwithstanding, the Mississippi Gulf Coast Tourist Industry has reason to be optimistic about the future.

Advance convention and group bookings in five of the major hotels for 1975 and 1976 will bring 150,000 visitors to the Mississippi Coast pouring over $28,000,000 into the coast's economy, according to Tom Russell, president of the Gulf Coast Innkeepers Association.

"As the Innkeepers wanted an accurate evaluation of future business, we compiled statistics from scheduled bookings of more than 600 groups with reservations at the major convention hotels and motels catering to group meetings," he stated.

The hundreds of tourists booking individually in other motels lining the beach are in addition to these figures.

"The results of the survey show a gratifying boost to our vital tourist industry in the next two years," Russell said. He noted that this new money being brought into the area has a turnover seven times in retail sales, payrolls, and local supply purchases by the various tourist interests.

The 24 luxury hotels and motels from Bay St. Louis to Pangeola which comprise the Innkeepers Association now offer an aggregate of 3,422 guest rooms plus multiple meeting and banquet facilities accommodating 50 to 1,000 delegates. In 1975 housing capacity will be increased by more than 600 rooms with completion of a

State's industrial growth is up

Mississippi's industrial growth is setting a fast pace again in 1974. The latest figures released by the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board for January through April indicate that capital investments in the State may well break a previous high for the third consecutive year. The first four months of 1974 have brought announcements totaling $100,000,000 for new and expanded industries providing Mississippians with 3,107 new job opportunities. This figure represents a gain of some $20,000,000 over the first six months of 1973.

Although it seems unlikely that the all-time high of $1.1 billion marked in 1973 will be surpassed, it is certainly possible that the number of high-tech jobs in the State could reach 10,000 in the near future.

Mississippi is now beginning to experience the kind of economic growth we have all wanted for our State," said Dr. Robert L. Robinson, the board's executive director. "Our figures for new and expanded industries show that the total investments for 1973 and 1974 are just under $1 billion. That represents a greater total investment in Mississippi than the previous 11 years combined. But the best part of it is that we can be particular about the quality of new industries we attract with a view toward protecting our unspoiled environment," he added.

The single largest contributor to the list of new industries for Mississippi during the first four months of 1974 was the Weyerhaeuser Company with the announcement of $55 million containerboard plant. The new facility will be located at Columbus and will provide employment for 600 Mississippians.

R&D Center offers new pamphlet

Two of the R&D Center's business-oriented divisions and the type of assistance each division offers are featured in a new Center publication, "Services Available to Mississippi Businessmen."

The brochure outlines management and technical assistance and information available to businessmen from the Center's Business and Industry Development Division (BIDD) and Information Services Division (ISD).

To insure that businessmen have the facts they need to make decisions to grow and expand, BIDD provides information research. This division assists the businessman with information on a wide variety of business, economic, and social subjects, using both in-house and national sources. Included among the division's special information sources are an automated information storage and retrieval system, visual aids, a complete collection of manufacturing directories from throughout the United States, and a directory of economic research currently in progress in Mississippi.

MRS. MICHAEL SANDERS

Gardner-Sanders vows exchanged in Bay St. Louis

Miss Pamela Ann Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Casanova of Pass Christian, and Michael E. Sanders, son of Mrs. Beverly Sanders and the late M. E. Sanders of Huntsville, Ala., were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, July 13, in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Very Rev. Gregory Johnson, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar adorned with baskets of white and yellow daisies accented with greenery.

Music was presented by Mrs. John McKenna and Miss Connie McCain, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her step-father, wore a formal gown fashioned of silk organza and chantilly lace over bridal taffeta. Appliques of chantilly lace and clusters of seed pearls enhanced her chapel length train. Her full length veil of silk illusion was bordered with matching lace. She carried a bouquet of roses, orchids and baby's breath.

Miss Daria Szymanski attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Eileen Bosworth, cousin of the bride, Mary Alice Hursey, Joe Ann Peralta and Tammy Sanders, sister of the groom.

They wore empire style gowns of yellow and white gingham and large brimmed hats trimmed with yellow and white ribbons. They carried bouquets of daisies and baby's breath.

Tommy Huggins, Huntsville, Ala., was best man. Groomsmen were John Stewart, Glendal Salters, Mitchell Sanders, brother of the groom, and Shawn Gardner, brother of the bride. Brant Bosworth, Ricky Bissonnette and Donald Rafferty served as ushers. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Casanova entertained at a reception at Discovery Bay Yacht Club.

Mrs. Casanova received their guests wearing a floor length blue chiffon gown. The mother of the groom chose a long rose colored dress. They both wore orchid corsages.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Las Brisas in Acapulco, the couple will reside in Jacksonville, Fla.

Sodality discusses fair plans

Monthly meeting of the Sodality of Our Lady of St. Clare's Parish was held Tuesday, July 23 in Costello Hall with Mrs. Junius Boudreaux, prefect, conducting the business session.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Scanlon, pastor, offered the opening and closing prayers.

Reports were presented by Mrs. Roland Galivan, recording secretary, Mrs. John Galivan, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Adrien Chagnard, treasurer. Mrs. Edward Canady, publicity chairman, noted she had sent letters to 19 radio and T.V. stations in Mississippi and Louisiana asking for their cooperation in announcing dates of St. Clare's annual fish fry and church fair.

daughters, Mrs. Karla Tartavouille, Misses Dana and Donna Bielstein, a son Cory and a granddaughter Hope Tartavouille, all of Waveland.

Mrs. Bielstein received their guests wearing a silk silver print floor length dress with a corsage of fleur d'amour.

The cake table, centered with a three-tiered cake trimmed with white spun sugar roses, silver leaves and feathered doves, was presided over by Mrs. Tartavouille. Mrs. Richard Warman, Waveland, and Donna Bielstein were at the punch bowl. Miss Dana Bielstein presided at the guest register.

Coming from out-of-town for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Kueck and sons Kenneth and Kevin of Foley, Ala.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Koerner, Jr. of Bay St. Louis announce the birth of their first child, a son, Clyde Koerner III, born July 19, 7:50 p.m., at Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

Coast Guard Academy accepting applications

The United States Coast Guard Academy has announced that it is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U.S. Coast Guard, Class of 1979.

Appointments to the Coast Guard Academy are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional appointments or geographical quotas.

Applications for appointment must be submitted to the Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, prior to 15 December 1974. Candidates must arrange to participate in the College Entrance Examination Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) prior to or including the 7 December 1974 administration.

The competition for appointment as Cadet is based on the candidate's high school rank, his performance on the SAT, and his leadership potential as demonstrated by his participation in high school extracurricular activities, community affairs or part-time employment. Most successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and demonstrate proficiency in both the mathematical and applied science fields.

To qualify for the competition, an applicant must be unmarried and must have reached his 17th but not his 22nd birthday by July 1, 1975. All applicants must be assured of high school graduation by June 30, 1975.

Pearl River Jr. College

Machine shop has over quarter million in latest equipment

The Pearl River Junior College machine shop at the Poplarville campus, recently purchased several new items of unique shop equipment, as part of an effort to keep abreast of the latest innovations in the industry.

Today, with the rapidly changing technologies, new types of machinery are constantly being introduced to the machinist's job in order to make the machinist's job easier and more efficient. Along with these new technologies and machinery comes the need for qualified machinists to operate the modern equipment.

Pearl River, with cooperation from the State Department of Vocational-Technical Education, is identifying these needs of industry and are providing the district public the needed equipment and training.

PRC equipment recently purchased include: a Numerical Control Milling Machine, a Bridgeport Milling Machine with an Optimal Read Out System, six clamping lathes with metric thread cutting capabilities and one surface grinder.

This new addition raises the total in inventory of the PRC Machine Shop well over the quarter-million dollar mark.

Probably the most unique item is the Numerical Control Milling Machine—a machine controlled and operated by a computer. Students operating this machine will be required to become familiar with the means of programming it for the many functions it is capable of performing. After programming this machine can do any operation of the regular milling equipment with the operator acting only as an observer.

According to Lavon Staten, shop instructor, with the addition of this $20,000 automated milling machine and other equipment this has made Pearl River one of the best equipped machine shop programs in the State. "We are equipped now to serve the needs of the many industries coming to South Mississippi," Staten said.

The machine shop program is a two year program designed to cover all aspects of the machinist's trade. Students enrolled in this course spend approximately three hours a day in the shop with the remainder of the day in related classes, such as drafting, mathematics, machine design, human relations and welding. At the completion of the program, assistance is also provided in placing the students on the job.

Al Brooks, vocational-technical coordinator said he thought the overall training given a student in the machine shop program is the reason so many PRC graduates are now in teaching or supervisor positions.

Anyone interested in more information on the Machine Shop Program should contact the PRC Vocational-Technical Department at the Poplarville campus. The phone number is 795-8142.

Artificial additives are linked to hyperactivity

The following is copied from REPORT ON PRESCHOOL EDUCATION, Education News Services, Capitol Publications, Inc.

The smiling face on the Kool-Aid pitcher may become a warning sign to parents of hyperactive children. Dr. Ben Feingold, a San Francisco allergist and researcher, told Washington Post staff writer Morton Mintz he has managed to effect normal behavior in hyperactive children by eliminating the synthetic colors and flavors they have been consuming in powdered soft drinks, toaster tarts, frozen waffles, ice cream, and even chewable vitamins.

Over the past 10 years, the incidence of hyperactivity has increased in a parallel curve with the rise in dollar sales of artificial colors, said Dr. Feingold. He first reported his findings in June to a meeting of the American Medical Association, repeated them at an international food symposium in London in July, and is now preparing an article for the British Medical Journal.

Fifteen to 18 children out of 25 responded "dramatically" to a diet free of artificial colors and flavors, he said, probably because there are many causes of hyperactivity, including allergy to other substances. The usual victim of hyperactivity is a boy of normal or high intelligence, whose brothers and sisters are not affected by it. Treatment for the condition is either an amphetamine like Ritalin or large doses of tranquilizers.

Even the chemicals the child is prescribed to control his hyperactivity are dyed with artificial food color, said Dr. Feingold. By keeping his patient off all artificial colors and flavors, he could bring about normal behavior in a few weeks, he said, but a relapse of so much as a bite of food containing the artificial coloring would cause a relapse in behavior within a few hours.

that could persist for as long as two days. He theorizes that children who suffer the condition are genetically disposed to it. There are 2,500 to 3,000 flavor additives in use, and 11 basic synthetic additives, he said.

Jr. Auxiliary Western Night successful affair

The Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary has expressed sincere appreciation to all those who supported the organization's successful Western Night Barbeque Saturday.

Earlier inclement weather cleared to provide a beautiful evening for the alfresco dining and later entertainment. Tables festively laid with red gingham cloths and candlelight were arranged on the lawn of the Joseph Gex pool house on South Beach Drive.

The many guests attending the gala affair enjoyed a buffet of typical Western fare, followed by an exhibition square dance by the Bells and Buoys, a Gulfport square dance group. Dancing for guests followed with music by Henry Heitzmann.

Alford works to be featured at library

The Pass Christian Art Association is sponsoring a one-man show of paintings and prints by artist member Jeanette Alford.

The display will open Sunday in the new Pass Christian Public Library with a reception between the hours of four and six of that afternoon.

Miss Alford is a graduate of Mississippi University for Women, Columbus, Miss., and holds a B.F.A. degree from that institution having majored in commercial art. She works, both in her oils and prints, in a realistic vein and says she likes to follow this trend.

Presently, she is employed in the commercial art department of the Daily Herald. The general public is invited to view her works which will be on display during library hours for the month of August.

How to turn a room into a home office

By ADELE FAULKNER
Copley News Service

If you are a person who works out of your apartment either occasionally or full time, you are going to need a room to function as an office.

The first thing you should ask yourself in putting the room together is, "What kind of a person am I, messy or neat?" If you are, unfortunately, in the messy category, you should just learn to accept it and design your apartment office to accommodate this trait.

One solution is to get yourself a rolltop desk. After doing your office work, you can just roll up the top to conceal your voluminous piles of paper work. This is especially helpful if your office doubles as a guest room or study for other members of your family.

Another solution to the messiness problem is to use your office closet for your desk. Simply remove the poles and put in a shelf 29 inches high with two drawer-high files on each side to support it. You might also consider building shelves above it.

Coast counties get Title XI grant

Southern Mississippi's Planning and Development District announces the receipt of a Title XI Grant, Community Service Employment Grant for Older Americans.

Implemented by Area-wide Model Project in Jackson, Harrison, and Hancock Counties, the project called "Senior Aide Program", will be directed by Mrs. Frances Adkins of Biloxi.

The purpose of the grant is to foster and promote useful part-time work opportunities in community service activities for unemployed low-income persons who are 55 years old and older and who have poor employment prospects.

Care for the Elderly, and Homemaker Aides.

Criteria for selecting the tri-county area to receive the grant included justification of the area as a locale in which Community Service Projects of the type authorized are most needed; consideration of the employment situation, potential projects and the number and percentage of local individuals who are eligible to participate.

In announcing the grant award, Mrs. Adkins stated that she felt privileged to serve as director of such a worthwhile service to the elderly whose greatest area of need is income, and the opportunity to assist them in becoming contributing citizens once more.

North Central sets registration for new students

Registration for new pupils who plan to enroll in grades seven through twelve at Hancock North Central School will be held Monday and Tuesday, August 5 and 6, from 9 a.m. until noon.

Pupils must bring their birth certificates and report cards for the 1973-74 school year. This registration is for new pupils who did NOT attend Annunciation, Gulfview, or Murphy Schools last year, according to HNC principal J.A. O'Neal.

Southeastern cattlemen warned

With reports that screwworms have been discovered in Arkansas and Oklahoma for the first time this year, a U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) veterinary services official urges southeastern livestock owners to be especially vigilant in watching for screwworms the remainder of this summer.

The Arkansas area around Mineral Springs where the live flesh-eating pest was discovered in the navel of a two-month old calf is being treated with release of 180,000 sterile screwworm flies this week to help control the spread. This is the first confirmed infestation of screwworms in Arkansas livestock since 1972 when six cases were recorded.

Dr. Ernest Ongert, assistant regional director of veterinary services for USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, recommends livestock owners avoid man-made wounds such as branding, dehorning and castrating whenever possible, and to treat unavoidable wounds and navels of newborn animals with a protective smear.

He suggests stockmen keep animals confined and watch until all wounds are dry and danger of infestation is gone. He also recommends careful inspection of animals being purchased or sold.

Female screwworm flies deposit their eggs on the edges of wounds in the live animals. Emerging larvae enter the wound to feed on the flesh—thus the name "screwworms."

When infested wounds are found, Ongert said samples should be taken from the center of the wound and submitted to the state veterinarian's office. Sample kits—may be obtained from state or federal veterinarians, livestock inspectors or county extension service agents.

Ongert said that Texas has recorded nearly 1,900 cases of screwworms so far this year. This compares to only 634 cases by the end of July last year.

Coast All Stars

The Gulf Coast All Stars became the first Gulf Coast team to win the Mississippi Babe Ruth championship Sunday as they defeated Northwest twice for the title Sunday in Hernando, Mississippi. The team departed last night for Greenville, North Carolina where they will represent Mississippi in the

Coast All Stars win state title

The Gulf Coast Babe Ruth All-Star team became the Mississippi Babe Ruth champions Sunday in Hernando, Mississippi, by downing Northwest in both games played. In the first game the All-Stars defeated Northwest 7 to 5 in a 10 inning affair. Tommy McKay, who relieved Ricky White in the sixth inning, took credit for the win. In the late game the All-Stars stopped Northwest at 6 to 4 in seven innings. McKay hurled the complete seven

Dugout strategy

Bay St. Louis Little League coach Stacky Strong had a few words of advice Saturday to his players on the field but to no avail it seems as the Bay St. Louis team fell 3-2 to Southaven in the Western Division playoffs of the Little League District II baseball tournament. Bay St. Louis defeated Pass Christian 5-1 and Handsboro 4-3 earlier in the tournament at McDonald Field.

Atlanta Ace chooses Ole Miss

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Pete Ladd, Player of the Year in Atlanta high school baseball, has signed a grant-in-aid scholarship with Ole Miss. The signing of Ladd was announced Thursday by Rebel head baseball coach Jake Gibbs. Ladd, an outstanding righthanded pitcher, led Henderson High of Dekalb County to the Georgia AAA state championship with a 14-2 pitching record. The 6-3, 220 Ladd was chosen a member of the Atlanta Braves Metro Atlanta High School All-Star team and Outstanding Player of the Year in the Metro Atlanta area. Ladd also was the recipient of the Stan Bell Memorial Trophy presented annually to the outstanding high school

Rebs sign Fla. netter

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Ole Miss tennis coach Junie Hovious announced Thursday the signing of another promising netter for the 1975 season. The latest Reb signee is Tad Wise, outstanding high school performer from Naples, Fla. A four-year letterman for Naples High, Wise played at the no. one position all four years. Twice conference champion in no. 1 singles, he was undefeated as a junior, finishing at 11-0 and winning second place in district competition in 1974. Wise was ranked 14th in mid-season (June) Florida rankings in 18-year singles for 1974, having been ranked 19th in 1973. His father, K.C. Wise, is an ex-major league infielder, having played second base for the Chicago Cubs, Milwaukee Braves and Detroit Tigers from 1956-60. He and his father were ranked fifth in the state in 1973 in father-son play. Young Wise was valedictorian of his graduating class, a member of the National Honor Society, the Key Club and the baseball team. Previously signing with the Rebels for 1975 was Drew Shillinglaw of Nashville, Tenn., the South's third-ranked singles player.

Ladner's moves behind Superior in men's softball league

by Edward Favre

In action Wednesday night in the Men's Softball League, Ladner's took over second place behind Superior Supply when they defeated The Sand Pebbles 8-5. Up to this game the Sand Pebbles were in second place, a half game ahead of Ladner's. In the first game Monday night Trapani's defeated Pearlington 8-2 and The Krack Bullets defeated the Sluggers 12-8 in the nightcap. Trapani's scored two runs in the first inning and added two more runs in the third, three in the fifth and one in the sixth for their eight runs. Pearlington managed to push two runs across in the top of the fifth inning for their only score of the game. Jeff Acker was the losing pitcher and Vernon Bernmond was the winner. In the nightcap, the Krack Bullets scored one run in the bottom of the first inning and added five more in the second, three in the third, two in the fourth and one in the sixth. The Sluggers scored three runs in the first inning, two in the second and three in the fourth for their score. John Rumbley was charged with the loss and Harry Farve was credited with the win. In the opener Friday night Crosby's defeated The Other Place 12-4. Crosby's got three runs in the top of the first inning, one in the fourth, three in the fifth, one in the sixth and four in the seventh.

Bay crew place second in Sears Cup

Bubby Eagan and his crew Ellen Eagan and Chris Stieffel, representing Bay Waveland Yacht Club and the Gulf Yachting Association, finished a close second in the Sears Cup Semi-Finals of the North American Junior Sailing Championship July 26-27 at Lake Carlyle, Illinois. The winner, Kelly Gough and crew Jennifer and Nancy Phelps of Corinthian Sailing Club in Dallas, will represent Area F in the Sears Finals to be sailed at Mentor Harbor Yachting Club in Ohio August 26-29.

The Bay Waveland team

quickly mastered the Thistles which they were sailing for the first time. They were the only team to finish consistently in the top half of the fleet in all six races of the round robin series. Kelly Gough got off to an early lead by winning the first race with Eagan in third place. Brad Max of Carlyle Sailing Association moved ahead by winning the second race, Eagan again third and Gough fifth. Eagan came in first in the third race to share the lead with Max. Eagan surged ahead in the fourth race to lead Corinthian by two points with his second place finish and Gough's third. Carlyle was disqualified.

On the second day of racing a very reluctant breeze barely moved the boats around the course, but the Texas skipper knew how to handle the light fluke wind to his best advantage, and cut Eagan's lead to 3/4 point after winning the fifth race with Eagan in second.

With one race remaining it was strictly a contest between the two leading teams whoever could beat the other would have the series. Gough came through in even lighter wind for a victory in the final race to secure his Area F championship. New Orleans Yacht Club crossed the line second and Bay Waveland third. Final Standings: Corinthian Sailing Club - 23 1/2 - Skipper Kelly Gough, crew Nancy and Jennifer Phelps. Bay Waveland Yacht Club - 28 1/2 - Skipper Bubby Eagan, crew Ellen Eagan and Chris Stieffel. Austin Yacht Club - 21 1/4 - Skipper Bobby Hardin, crew Kelson Elam and John Bartlett. Carlyle Sailing Association - 21 1/4 - Skipper Brad Max, crew Kevin Blair and Randy Lenz. New Orleans Yacht Club - 14 - Skipper Benz Faget and crew Carl Herman and Mike Heyd. Windcrest Sailing Club - 14 - Skipper Jo Elyn McDonald, crew Edith Froeb and Skeeter Chilton. Winner of the Ship-Shore Award was the all girl crew from Windcrest Sailing Club in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Sailed concurrently with the Sears was the D. Verner Smythe Trophy Semi-Finals for the North American Junior Single-Handed Sailing Championship in Sunfish. This is a new series begun this year following the same regulations as the Sears except that skippers furnished their own boats through Semi-Final level.

Representing Bay Waveland Yacht Club and the Gulf Yachting Assoc., Rod Stieffel was the youngest competitor in the series. The winner, who will represent Area F in the Finals at Mentor Harbor, Ohio, was Paul McClaskey of Windcrest Sailing Club, Tulsa, Okla. Final Standings: Windcrest Sailing Club, Tulsa, Okla. - 21 1/4 - Paul McClaskey. Clear Lake Sailing Club, Houston, Tex. - 20 3/4 - Paul Vogel. White Rock Boat Club, Dallas, Tex. - 20 1/2 - Scott Young. Bay Waveland Yacht Club - 15 - Rod Stieffel. Southern Yacht Club - 8 - Kenneth Moran.

Bass boat owners are cautioned

Bass boat owners were cautioned not to operate their craft from the boat's high pedestal type seats in a communique from the state Boat and Water Safety Commission this week. In memorandums issued to all state water patrol units, the commission directed patrol units to begin immediately issuing citations to owners of the popular fishing boats who operate their craft while riding in the high platform seats commonly found on the boats. The commission pointed to several serious boating accidents recently as a result of riding in these high style seats while a craft is moving, as the reason for the action. "In an effort to avoid future accidents," a spokesman said, "water patrolmen across the state will consider riding in the high pedestal type seats while the boat is underway at high speeds to be reckless or negligent operation and the operator will be cited for it."

Record flounder haul

It's a good thing there isn't any bag limit on catching flounders from boats, because Bay St. Louis contractor Charlie McClendon would have been out of luck after his first trip of the summer. Sunday night he broke his own record with a catch of 275 flounders...close to 450 pounds of fish! Helping him gig the big catch were his wife Frances, contractor Jay Triche and Baton Rouge friends Gus and Elaine Goslin.

Big fish story

Jake Bradbury and 11-year-old son Keith brought an 89 lb. stingray into Joe Cure's Marina Saturday after father and son spent nearly thirty-five minutes battling the big fish. The two were fishing close to Bayou Caddy.

Losing cause

Southaven wins District championship

Eastern Division champs Southaven Continental became the District II Little League state champions Tuesday night as they overcame Western Division title holder Ocean Springs 9-5 in a rain delayed game.

The game which was scheduled for play at McDonald Field at 6:30 p.m. in Bay St. Louis was moved to Ocean Springs after torrential rains in the Bay forced the two teams to pack their gear.

Southaven will now advance to the 13 state regional championships at St. Petersburg, Fla. in August.

Southaven edged Bay St. Louis 3-2 in the Western Division playoffs last Saturday night at McDonald Field in the Bay.

In that game Dwayne LaFontaine scored his third homerun of the season in the top of the sixth inning with one man on base.

Previously the Bay All Stars had defeated Gulfport Dixie 6-3 to get to the playoffs. In that game Gary Sotak chalked up his second homerun of the season in the top of the fifth inning with two men on base.

Ocean Springs gained a berth in the state playoffs after defeating Biloxi National 8-5 for the Eastern Division title.

It marked the first time that Bay St. Louis had been chosen to host the District tournament which drew a crowd of visitors from as far away as the Miss.-Tenn. state line.

JA's to conduct life saving course

The Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary will sponsor an American Red Cross Junior Life Saving Class beginning Monday Aug. 5 through Saturday Aug. 10.

Any boy or girl is eligible to take the junior course if they are not less than 11 or more than 14-years-old or have completed the fifth grade, are in sound physical condition and can fulfill the following requirements:

Perform a standing front dive in reasonably good form; swim 220 yards continuously using a crawl stroke; a side stroke using a scissor kick and a stroke on the back using an inverted scissor kick or breast stroke kick, perform a surface dive to a minimum depth of six feet and swim 10-12 feet underwater; tread water one half minute.

Classes will be held from 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. each morning at the St. Stanislaus pool.

For further information contact Mrs. Virginia Wagner at 467-7872.

Registration still open for doubles tournament

Registration for the Bay St. Louis Doubles Tennis Tournament Aug. 3-4 will remain open until Aug. 1. Brackets for play will be ready for the first match at 8 a.m.

A spokesman said that more entries are needed in order to hold the tournament as scheduled. The tournament is open to men and women ages 15-20.

Interested persons may contact the Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds Commission at 467-3088.

SEARS CUP - Bay Waveland's team of Bubby Eagan, Ellen Eagan and Chris Stieffel did a great job at the SEARS CUP SEMI-FINALS for the North American Junior Sailing Championship, finishing a very close second to the Corinthian Sailing Club team of Kelly Gough, Nancy and Jennifer Pehlips of Dallas. The six race round robin was sailed in Thistles on Lake Carlyle, Illinois.

SMYTHE - Rod Stieffel finished fourth in the first North American Junior Single-Handed Sailing Championship Semi-Finals for the D. Verner Smythe Trophy. The skippers sailed their own boats in this six race series held with the Sears by Carlyle Sailing Association. The winner was Paul McCaskey of Windycress Sailing Club, Tulsa Okla.

Attending the SEARS and SMYTHE CUP Regatta from Bay Waveland Yacht Club were Commodore and Mrs. Ray Stieffel, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Eagan, Bubby, Mimi and Ellen Eagan, Chris, Rod and Dennis Stieffel.

O'DAY - Buzzy Heausler finished third in the Semi-Finals of the O'DAY MEN'S NORTH AMERICAN SINGLE-HANDED SAILING CHAMPIONSHIP in Lasers at New Orleans Yacht Club July 26 and 27. The series was won by Mark Foster of Dallas who along with Dave Patterson of Corpus Christi who finished second will represent AREA F in the O'DAY Finals at the Royal Victorian Yacht Club in British Columbia.

BILOXI GYA INVITATIONAL REGATTA - Marc Eagan won first place in the Senior Sunfish Division of Biloxi Yacht Club's GYA Invitational Regatta July 27 and 28. Bill McConnell of Biloxi was second and Ed Turnipseed of BWYC was third.

In the Junior Sunfish Division, Guy Brierre was first, with William Weatherly of Gulfport Y. C. second and Gigi Staehle of BWYC third. BAIL THE BILGE - Saturday, August 3. This informal cocktail party will begin at 6, with hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Eagan, Mr. and Mrs. Ewell Eagan, Mr. and Mrs. Allain Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bookhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Hatton, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Flettrich, and Mr. and Mrs. William Heausler.

LADIES AUXILIARY - 10 Tuesday, August 6.

BAY BOURBON TROPHY - Eliminations are being sailed among 12 Bay Waveland skipperettes, with the finals to be a three race series Saturday, August 3. The first place skipperette will be the winner of the Bay Bourbon Trophy. The top three finishes will determine the BWYC team who will sail the Knost All-Girl Regatta at Pass Christian Yacht Club August 10 and 11.

BAY BOURBON 3-RACE SERIES - Start of first race 11:30.

EXPERT - 3 p.m. Bubby Eagan, Bill Reeves, Ray Stieffel, Walter Chamberlain,

Heausler takes third

Buzzy Heausler, sailing for Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, finished third in the semi-finals of the O'Day North American Single-Handed Sailing Championship Saturday in New Orleans.

As winner of the quarter-finals held earlier this season, Heausler represented the Gulf Yachting Association in the six race semi-finals sailed in Lasers at the New Orleans Yacht Club July 26-27.

Finishing first was Mark Foster of Dallas with 26 1/2 points. Dave Patterson of Corpus Christi was second with 26 1/2. Foster and Patterson will represent Area F in the O'Day Finals at the Royal Victorian Yacht Club in British Columbia.

Heausler finished third with 15 points.

Buzzy Heausler, Charlie Staehle.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 4: 11:30 p.m. A-CLASS - Elizabeth Chapman, Mimi Eagan, Cindy Stieffel, Poppy Stieffel, Tommy Heausler, Weezy Kennedy.

1:30 p.m. EXPERT - Bubby Eagan, Chuck Breath, Ann Stieffel, Ray Stieffel, Don Chamberlain, Frank Allen.

Alternate, Harry Chapman. 3:30 p.m. JUNIOR - Lynn Eagan, Amy Chapman, Tracey Stieffel, Paul Robinson, Bobby Fayard, Elizabeth Santa Cruz.
